OUR DEADLY NEED

We must have oxygen to live ...but oxygen, in the form of free radical particles, can also endanger our health and threaten our lives, “rusting” body tissues. Nutrients called antioxidants are the best defense against free radicals—and a plant-derived substance called OPC is one of the most powerful antioxidants ever discovered. This Good Health Guide explores both the fascinating story of OPC’s discovery—with the first clues dating back more than 450 years—and the many ways it promotes health, from guarding against heart attacks, degenerative diseases and the effects of aging to relieving inflammations and the discomforts of PMS.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR
